

----ONE OF THE TENNESSEE VALLEY WOODWORKER'S OWN IS HAVING A SHOW-

Dick Wollam's Carving Show opens Friday August 17, 2018 at the Artisan's Depot in Cowan with an Opening Reception from 5-7 PM.

You are invited to Dick Wollam's "One Man Show" Opening Reception. His "One Man Show" will be on display for about one month. Come out and support one of our club members.

Things you might not know about Dick:

If you haven't seen any of Dick's fabulous woodworking pieces you are in for a treat. Whether it's a wonderful side table or one of his ducks in flight carvings or wall hangings or one of his mystical dragon carvings, (and oh so much more) he is truly a master. Dick started carving at the age of ten because all of the other kids had airplanes and his father could not afford to buy him one. Because he lived in the projects there was always scrap lumber lying around. One day Dick said, "I think I'll just make one for myself." and that started 70+ years of the love of carving. Dick said, "I got so much attention for the plane I craved and it made me feel so good I just never could quit." Among his carvings is a copy of the Wright brother's plane and the 1942 War Bird. You are invited to see many of Dick's best work and enjoy some light refreshments and speak to the artist himself and get the tips and tricks of woodcarving. All of Dick's work is for sale.
